In fact, I don't really have a whole lot of experience in keeping pets. I mean, I've fostered kittens in the past. I've had dogs as pets. But I've never been much of a "pet person". Until now. At the beginning of this week, I signed up to host a weekly 12-step program called The Year of Possibility. It's a 12-week program that's based on a "self-improvement" concept. At the end of the year, we're supposed to see some positive changes in our lives. A lot of people have made this program their New Year's resolution. I took the first step and booked my one-on-one hour with my sponsor (the person who's going to be helping me to move forward). I started it by asking him for my first 12-step question: What am I not doing that I should be doing? He told me to spend the next week spending time with people who have some sort of problem. Spend a whole week's time with a person who's drinking, a person who's using drugs, a person who's acting like a jerk, a person who's cheating on their spouse. Let that sink in for a second. For a whole week, I'm going to spend time with someone who has a problem. That's the part of this program that really blew me away. It is the largest and most liquid market in the world. It is also known as foreign exchange market (Forex). What is the relationship between forex and gold? The foreign exchange market deals in the major currencies of the world, like the dollar, the euro and the pound. There are also other currencies. It is called foreign exchange market because currency traders exchange one currency for another currency, mostly for profit. However, Forex market is one of the major markets in the world where the major currencies are traded. The forex market is also considered to be the "finest form" of money laundering because of the ease of moving currency from one account to another. The forex market is not regulated by the government and is not subject to any anti-money laundering laws. The great thing about the forex market is the fact that it trades in the world's major currencies, currencies that most people use. So, its transactions are of great consequence to our daily lives. Forex and Gold For instance, if I buy a house for $100,000, I can use the forex market to sell the house for the dollar price in which the house is priced. If I buy gold, I can sell the gold for the same price as the dollar, and vice versa. Therefore, the forex market is a parallel market in which currencies are traded for another currency, in this case the dollar, and gold. It is also called the "gold market". This parallel market is very volatile and always in the news because of its increasing economic and political significance. As mentioned above, it is not regulated by any government, which makes it difficult for the authorities to control. Most economists believe that there are good and bad reasons for investing in gold, but if you have decided that you are looking to invest in gold, then the Forex market should be on your list. Forex and Gold has a special relationship, since both gold and currencies are traded on the forex market. The precious metal market, therefore, involves the buying and selling of gold bullion and gold certificates. Gold is a metal that is used in jewelry and other items. Gold, as a metal, is one of the most sought after by investors and there are good reasons to invest in gold. The same holds true for currencies. However, because of the Forex market, the currencies are frequently traded. Because the Forex market
